Dear Andrew, Snowden, Diana and Annie,

As I was biking home, I realized that I had forgotten to publicly acknowledge your tremendous help in making today as success. I know I have thanked each one of you individually, but I am deeply sorry for this oversight, and I hope you'll understand that it is only due to my inexperience in this position, rather than any lack of appreciation for your service to the Department. Today was really an exceptional day and what we accomplished will mean a lot moving forward.

Thanks so much again and have a restful weekend,

Jean-François
